■ NYDIS' 9/11 Interfaith Memorial Service

On the 5th anniversary of September 11th, NYDIS hosted the only Interfaith Memorial Service open to the public at Ground Zero in historic St. Paul's Chapel. The theme of the Service, "Bringing Light to Our City", was the topic of the homily delivered by The Rev. Dr. James A. Forbes, the Senior Minister of The Riverside Church. "Just seeing people of faith together was a visual sign of hope beyond the fragmentation that had given rise to the events of 9/11," said Rev. Forbes. The service was attended by some 300 guests and elected officials and dignitaries. The service was led by 22 senior religious leaders including Archbishop Demitrios, Judy Chen, Dr. Forbes, Imam Hasan, Bishop Park, Rabbi Potasnik and Bishop Sisk. There were Anglican, Buddhist, Christian, Jewish, Muslim, Orthodox Christian, Roman Catholic and Sikh readings, prayers and blessings; and the service also paid tribute to the national faith-based relief and recovery agencies present which raised more than $300 Million and provided thousands of volunteers and staff over the past five years. NYS Attorney General Elliot Spitzer's letter to each of these agencies noted that "...the positive impact of your tireless commitment on behalf of victims of September 11th is truly immeasurable." After the service, a private "Tribute Dinner" was held at the Millennium Hilton WTC to honor the national faith-based relief agencies.

■ NYDIS/OEM in Bronx for National Preparedness Month

On September 7, NYDIS helped launch "September is National Preparedness Month", as designated by the Department of Homeland Security. In coordination with the NYC Office of Emergency Management (OEM) and four other Citizen Corps Council agencies, we mobilized volunteers throughout the city to educate the public about individual, household, congregational, and community preparedness. NYDIS was stationed in front of the Bronx Courthouse on the Grand Concourse, a bustling intersection where we distributed Ready NY pocket guides, Hurricane brochures, and NYDIS preparedness materials, including NYDIS Community Preparedness Training brochures to passersby who lived and worked in the area.

Senior Director of Response, Dr. Scott Graham attended the meeting and will serve as liaison for this partnership. The ARC now joins four other advisors on the NYDIS Board from DOHMH, FEMA Region II, HSC, and NYC OEM.

In May, NYDIS was awarded funding through 2006 to staff and host the NYC Katrina Unmet Needs Roundtable. The purpose of these trainings is to provide case managers with a better understanding of the workings of the Roundtable and to help increase the likelihood that a client's needs could be funded.

- NYC Katrina Unmet Needs Roundtable

The NYC Katrina Unmet Needs Roundtable aids case managers in securing cash assistance and to share resources to best meet the unmet needs of disaster victims so that they may regain self-sufficiency and recover from the impact of a disaster. The Roundtable helps to facilitate long-term recovery by supporting clients' recovery plans. Case managers who would like to present at the NYC Katrina Unmet Needs Roundtable may submit a request the Friday prior to the Roundtable meeting.

■ Congress Seeks More $ for Ailing 9/11 Recovery Workers

After listening to recovery workers at Ground Zero and downtown residents emotionally describe how they had been ignored as they sought help for health problems after 9/11, members of a Congressional subcommittee on September 8 criticized the Federal response and called for sharply increased medical spending. The subcommittee hearing came amidst rising concern about the long-term health effects on about 40,000 workers and volunteers who were exposed to toxic smoke and dust on the debris pile.

■ New 9/11 Recovery Worker Compensation & Registry

Thanks to a new law, most workers and volunteers who did rescue, recovery or cleanup work after 9/11 are now eligible to register with the Workers' Compensation Board. By registering, workers and volunteers who are not sick will have the right to obtain workers' compensation if they become sick in the future. Those who are sick, but missed the 2003 deadline to file a claim, can register and file a claim at the same time. The new law also applies both to people who did paid or unpaid work. Anyone who has already been turned down for 9/11-related workers' compensation can file a new claim or register under the new law. The deadline to file a claim or to register with the Workers' Compensation Board under the new law is August 14, 2007.

■ Flood Insurance Bill Falters

US Senate action on legislation to overhaul the National Flood Insurance Program and offset huge debts caused by Hurricane Katrina payouts is being stalled by Louisiana's two senators, who prefer provisions in a bill passed by the House. The Times-Picayune reports that Sen. Mary Landrieu and Sen. David Vitter expressed concern about several provisions by the Senate Banking Committee, including one that would allow a 25% annual increase in insurance premiums for severe repetitive loss properties, business properties and second homes until the policyholders are paying market rates. The House bill provides for only 15% annual increases and doesn't apply to repetitive loss properties.

FROM OUR MEMBERS AND PARTNERS

- ERD Continues 9/11 Recovery/Domestic Disaster Response

Immediately after 9/11/01, Episcopal Relief and Development (ERD) responded, providing food and other supplies to rescue workers at Ground Zero, also training chaplains who offered trauma counseling. Working in partnership with NYDIS, ERD supports interfaith education and recovery programs which include dialogues and interagency support that promotes interfaith understanding, tolerance, and conflict resolution. In their latest Press Release sent out last week on September 11, NYDIS Executive Director, Peter Gudaitis, noted, "ERD has been a visionary partner, ensuring people affected by 9/11 are given appropriate support and access to resources including case management." He continues, "ERD's support has focused on the unmet needs [such as mental health and pastoral cares] of under-resourced communities in NYC including survivors, families and injured recovery workers. The partnership has benefited 1000 families each year since 2001." And today, ERD continues its commitment to long-term rebuilding following the 9/11 tragedy.

- Tribute WTC Visitor Center Opens to Public

The ribbon-cutting ceremony, attended by Governor Pataki, Mayor Bloomberg, and other dignitaries, was on September 6. On September 18, the doors to the Tribute WTC Visitor Center officially opened to the public. The Center offers visitors to Ground Zero absorbing gallery experiences that interactively share personal stories of 9/11. Daily Walking Tours led by participants in these events provide uniquely personal perspectives on the events of February 26, 1993 and September 11, 2001. The Center will remain in place until the permanent WTC Memorial and Museum are completed.

A nationwide effort held each September to encourage Americans to take simple steps to prepare for emergencies in their homes, businesses and schools, National Preparedness Month 2006 is sponsored by the Department of Homeland Security (DHS). The goal is to increase public awareness about the importance of preparing for emergencies. Throughout September and beyond, DHS works with local, state and federal government agencies and the private sector to highlight the importance of emergency preparedness through events across the nation.

- For DHS, Partnerships Are Key to Preparedness

At Georgetown University in Washington, DC, on September 8, Department of Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff reviewed DHS's efforts five years after the 9/11 attacks. "...we have to continue to work to build a unified set of effective capabilities to manage the risk to the people of this country." The key, he said, was integrating national capabilities to prevent and respond to all threats and hazards through strong partnerships across all sectors, public and private, as well as internationally. He highlighted efforts in border and cargo screening, critical infrastructure protection, information sharing, and emergency preparedness.

- Flu Preparedness

- 100 Million Flu Vaccine Doses Available This Year

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) announced on September 6 that Flu vaccine manufacturers are expecting to produce and distribute more than 100 million doses of Flu vaccines in the US between now and early January, 2007. This is at least 17 million more doses of influenza vaccine than has ever been distributed in the past. "...if the manufacturers' estimates hold, more people than ever before will be able to protect themselves and their loved ones from Flu this year," said Dr. Julie Gerberding, CDC director.

- Avian Flu Virus Vaccines Show Protection in Animal Studies

When tested in mice and ferrets, experimental vaccines based on live, weakened versions of different strains of the H5N1 Avian Flu virus were well-tolerated and protected the animals from a deadly infection with naturally occurring H5N1 Flu viruses. The findings, which appear in the September 12 issue of PLoS Medicine, are also encouraging because they demonstrate the ability to create a vaccine based on one particular strain of the H5N1 Flu virus that could potentially protect against different emerging H5N1 Flu strains.
